Prayer Requests:

Charlie was back to Prayer Meeting this week. He's doing better, but still has a cough. Please continue to pray for his healing.

Carole Dunifer has started chemo. May the Lord bless her with healing and give her strength.

Carrie Haan has informed us that all documentation is in order for her to return to the Philippines on Sunday. PTL!!

Sharon Terrell reported that one of the women she's been sending Bible studies to is ready for a visit. PTL!!

Charlie's friend, Laurel Jones, reported that tests after completing chemo reveals the cancer is gone. However, the doctors want to follow up with another round of chemo. Let's pray that God will direct her decision.

Remember to pray for Pastor Keith's mother, who is having cardiac issues.

Let's continue to pray for the Discover Bible studies. May the Lord bless each request in a special way to turn the hearts of those who need Him and be encouraged to be ready for His soon coming!

Please pray for safe travels for Ann-Marie as she leaves for Jamaica in the morning.

For December's Something Else Sabbath School, we are focusing on individual intentional acts of kindness. We challenge you to try at least one intentional act of kindness each week. If you're not sure where to start or what counts as an act of kindness? Get inspired by these ideas...

- Host a week-long daily gratitude challenge.
- Join a pro bono project & use your skills and expertise to support a non-profit.
- Volunteer to tutor a child.
- Deliver a care package to a military member, veteran, first responder, school teacher, etc.
- Tell your family and friends that you love them (more often than you normally do).
- Write a thoughtful letter to someone who needs a little extra positivity.
- Find a volunteer opportunity in your area and participate at least twice!
- Offer to go grocery shopping or make a meal for an elderly neighbor.
- Pay it forward and pay for a meal or hot beverage for a stranger – or the person in line behind you at the drive-through.
- Spend an hour cleaning up a park.
- Be intentional in connecting with strangers on a walk. Smile, look them in the eye and wish them a good day. Bonus points if you can give them a genuine compliment.
- Put time on a co-worker's calendar just to check in and have a virtual break together.
- Write a note of gratitude to people in your life that have inspired or moved you in some way.
- Put away shopping carts at the grocery store.
- Paint kindness stones and leave them around your neighborhood.
- Post inspiring affirmations on sticky notes in your building if you're working from the office. Or put a positive affirmation sticky note on the mirror in the gas station, park or library restroom.
- Forgive someone whom you've been struggling with for a while—if not to be kind to them, then to be kind to yourself.
- Bring flowers to a nursing home.
- Mentor a high school or college student.
- Leave positive comments on a website or blog.

- Support local restaurants you love by buying a gift card, writing a positive review on Yelp or by sharing on your social media.
- Donate coloring books and crayons to a local children's hospital.
- Send a card to a sick and shut-in or missing member.
- Forgive someone... even if that someone is yourself.
- Write a handwritten thank you note to mentors in your life.
- Order meal delivery service one evening for a neighbor, peer or friend who is going through a challenging time.
- Strike up a conversation with a server or cashier you know, when purchasing a meal or shopping.
- Hold the door open for people.
- Offer to help carry grocery bags for someone.
- Leave a box of things for free that no longer serve you in a spot outside of your home. Put up a sign that says "FREE."
- Tell a joke to someone and make them laugh.
- Let someone go in line in front of you.
- Be polite on the road. Let someone out, on a hard left turn. Let someone in, in front of you.
- Bring in your neighbors' trash cans.
- Send positive quotes to your friends, peers and loved ones.
- Surprise someone with flowers. Buy flowers to give to the nursing station at a hospital or nursing home.
- Help the environment, skip driving when you can, and take public transportation.
- Send a surprise package to someone.
- Find opportunities to give compliments. It costs nothing, takes no time, and could make someone's entire day.
- Say "Thank you" and mean it.
- Make someone a positive, upbeat playlist.
- Write a list of things you love about someone or yourself.
- Leave a positive sticky note on someone's car windshield or desk.
- Give up a good parking spot.
- Put change in someone's parking meter.
- Purchase a few small gift cards from a local restaurant and give them away.
- Listen – really listen – when someone is talking with you... especially your spouse or children.
- Buy one new thing and donate it unused in its original packaging.
